

Local CWA Quota Must Be Reduced To 787 By April 1

Local CWA Headquarters Received Telegram From State CWA Late Friday Afternoon—Further Cuts May Be Expected During April According to the Telegram.

Kingston's CWA quota received a further cut, according to a telegram received from the State CWA late Friday afternoon at the headquarters here. The telegram read: For each week beginning April 1 your quota of all workers under Works Administration and all local, state, federal and adult education projects is 787 individuals. Please make necessary adjustments gradually to arrive at this figure by March 31. Refer to Bulletin 32 of March 20 for detailed instructions as to employment of eligibles for the retention. Further cuts and adjustments may be expected during April.

As has been announced previously the local CWA ceases to function on March 31, and will be succeeded by the Works Division of the Temporary Emergency Relief Administration, which will work along similar lines as that in force under the emergency work relief program in effect before it was replaced by the Civil Works Administration program.

At the present time Kingston's quota is 847, and the reduction to 787 means that 60 individuals must be laid off between now and the first of April.

Roberts Property Damaged by Fire

Fire Department Called Out by Early Morning Fire in Ponckhockie—Mr. Roberts Asleep When Fire Broke Out in Attic—Other Fires Here.

Louis Roberts was sound asleep early this morning in his rooms over his restaurant at the corner of North street and Delaware avenue, when he was awakened by a man's voice shouting: "How do you turn in the alarm?"

"What?" asked Mr. Roberts in sleepy tones as he got out of bed and went to his bedroom window. "How do you turn in a fire alarm?" asked a negro in the street front of the Roberts place.

"Why?" asked Mr. Roberts. "Your place is on fire," replied the negro.

Mr. Roberts, dressing hastily, examined how to break the glass in the fire alarm box on the corner, and at the burning building.

The fire department responded to the alarm turned in from Box 15, and upon arrival found the attic and roof a mass of flames.

The fire had evidently started in the attic and before the fire was brought under control it had burned the roof of the building and done other damage to the building. There was also considerable damage from water as it was necessary to put three streams of water on the blaze.

The building is a two-story frame building with an attic. The second floor is used by Mr. Roberts for his business and the second floor he occupies as living apartments.

Cornell, Union and Cordis House responded to the alarm and when fire Chief Murphy reached the scene he called out the aerial truck and pumper from the Central Station as it was necessary to use the pumper to get sufficient pressure to lay on the fire with the hose.

Shortly after midnight the fire department responded to a telephone call for a fire that started in the fire-alarm in the residence of Raymond Kline at 15 Charlotte avenue. The fire, according to the fire department, was caused by a defective fireplace. It was extinguished with chemicals.

Friday the fire department was called for a dump fire on Abry street and also for a grass fire off Wilcox street and Mary's avenue.

Kingston Bill Signed. Governor Lehman on Friday signed the bill intended to straighten out the morality and supervisors in Kingston. Under the provisions of the bill C. J. Heeselman will fill out the unexpired term of Harry B. Walker as mayor. The bill also provides for the removal of supervisors in the city whose eligibility to hold office was questioned, will also serve out their terms.

Reactions to French Disarmament Note

By The Associated Press.

A French note on disarmament to Great Britain, made public Friday, was received with noticeably different reactions today in every nation.

In Paris it was hoped that the note would result in the British government seeking the United States action toward the French request for guarantees of security.

In London it was said that Great Britain "would do nothing of the kind" but that it was hoped France would modify her security demands. In Washington it was said that the United States would not enter into any agreement guaranteeing security for France or any other nation.

In Geneva, the home of the League of Nations, hope was expressed that everyone might be expected to participate in guarantees.

Education Board to Study on Junior High School Plans

Board Will Make Survey of Initial Cost and Upkeep of Such a Building—Many Request Junior High School Building—Other Matters Before Board of Education.

In order that the subject may become clear to the public and taxpayers of the city in an intelligent manner the board of education at a regular monthly meeting Friday evening authorized the Building Committee to make a survey to ascertain approximately the cost of the erection of a junior high school in the city. This survey will be made not only to determine the cost of construction of a building but also to learn the maintenance cost, number of students who might be accommodated and to make a study as to the yearly increase to the taxpayers of the city in the event a junior high school is erected.

The matter came up before the board on a petition presented by the P. T. A. of School No. 7 and signed by some 300 people representing six Parent-Teacher Associations of the city.

Trustee Katz inquired whether the people signing the petition were taxpayers or not but Superintendent Van Ingen said the petition has been received too late to make any such investigation.

The petition requested that a survey of the cost, probable number of students who might be accommodated, availability of Federal money and yearly increase in cost to the taxpayers be investigated by the board and that after the board had made this study that the committee be permitted to have a hearing before the board.

President Beeres said that there had been much talk throughout the city for some time over the erection of a junior high school. There had been several speakers in town who had spoken in favor of the plan but these people were outsiders who were not directly interested in the matter of cost. However there had arisen a certain amount of feeling that a junior high school should be built. The far the matter had been a one-sided proposition with one side seeking the construction of a junior high school even though its approximate cost to the taxpayers had not been touched upon. In his opinion he said he thought the matter should be thoroughly investigated and approximate costs presented so that the matter might be approached in a more intelligent manner. Perhaps when the cost of the project is learned by the people who are to pay the cost of the school there will be some difference of opinion and that was what the board desired, to hear both sides of the question and determine what really was necessary.

Many of the people who have agitated the erection of a junior high school have no part in the paying of the bill or the resultant operating cost. The cost to the taxpayers, Mr. Beeres said, was one thing to be considered at this time. A careful and thorough study of the problem by the Building Committee he said would bring to light all of these matters and the committee was authorized to make a study as requested in the petition and report back to the board at a later date.

So far as the present high school was concerned, Mr. Beeres said it could comfortably take care of from 1,500 to 1,600. There were now 1,885 in the building but of these about 600 were non-resident pupils. There was ample room in the building for all resident pupils and for two or three hundred non-residents and the problem was whether the taxpayers of the city desired to spend a large sum of money for the construction of a junior high school in order to accommodate two or three hundred non-resident pupils. One member of the board said that if the taxpayers of the city know that this is the situation they may look upon the matter of a large expenditure now to care for non-residents in a different light. Were it not for the city taking care of some 600 non-resident students at the high school there would be ample room in the present building for all city children and there would be room for a considerable number of non-resident students.

The matter was finally left to the board.

Claim Unions Refuse to Make Public List of Its Members

Manufacturers Want to Know List of A. F. of L. Members—Union Heads Refuse But Will Tell Government Representative, They Say—Belief Adjustment Will Soon Be Reached.

Washington, March 24 (AP)—Automobile manufacturers, conferring with administration officials in an effort to prevent a strike, issued a statement today saying they had agreed to appointment of an impartial board to pass on labor grievances but they charged again that the labor unions intend to obtain a dominant position.

Despite the statement, administration officials, expected a settlement of the dispute within a few hours.

The manufacturers spoke in reply to reports that settlement of the strike depended only on willingness of the management to let the government check the union membership claims with payrolls and say whether they are correct.

"If that is the only remaining issue," the statement said, "let there be no misunderstanding as to what it means."

"It means that the union refuses to tell the manufacturers whom the union represents. It wants the right to act for employees without disclosing their authority from them. It is like a lawyer saying to you, 'I have a client who is suing you. I won't tell you who it is, but I will bargain for him.'"

"No outside agency can check the union claims against the payroll, can come to any fair decision without disclosing the names to the manufacturers."

"The unions' refusal to say whom it represents is just another indication of its purpose to dominate industry."

"All the union would have to do is to coerce men into signing union applications," the statement continued.

"The public should know that this refusal on the part of the union to say whom the union represents is the same issue of union domination in another form."

"The union said that if it tells the manufacturers whom it represents, there will be discrimination against union members. On the contrary the manufacturers have agreed to an impartial board to pass on any cases of alleged discrimination and to have its findings reviewed by a board created by NRA. Thus, there is no warrant for the unions' claims that there will be discrimination."

Observers held the opinion that the last paragraph strongly suggested the basis for agreement would avoid the holdings of elections in the plants at this time and instead would

Experts Will Assist In Filing Returns For State Income Tax

Deadline Only Three Weeks Away—New Forms Including One Per Cent Tax Made Available—Exemptions Are Given.

Albany, N. Y., March 24 (AP)—With the deadline for filing state income tax returns only three weeks away, a corps of experts from the income tax bureau will be busy from now until April 15 aiding taxpayers in various cities and villages in the preparation of their returns.

This work was started a few days ago when the new forms for the emergency one per cent tax were made available, and will get under way in earnest next week. Many returns have already been received. Cortland A. Wilbur, director of the income tax bureau, said today.

Collectors were delayed by the amendment to the emergency tax passed by the legislature a week ago, permitting personal exemptions of $2,500 to married persons, $1,000 to single persons and $400 for dependents. New forms had to be printed and mailed out after the amendment was approved.

Most of the taxpayers held up their normal income tax returns so they could file them at the same time they filed the emergency returns.

The two income tax measures will bring in an estimated $57,000,000—the normal tax, $34,000,000 and the emergency tax, $23,000,000. The amendment, permitting exemptions, slashed $14,000,000 from the amount expected from the emergency taxes originally known as the "gross" income tax.

The entire $25,000,000 of the emergency levy will have to be paid between now and April 15. The normal tax, however, may be paid in quarterly installments.

The chief difference between the two measures is that the emergency tax does not allow any deductions beyond the personal exemptions provided for in the amendment.

A married man with income of $10,000 a year is required to pay a one per cent tax on $7,500. If he has children he may deduct $400 for each one.

Under the normal income tax, there is a graduated scale of two per cent for the first $10,000, four per cent for the next $40,000 and six per cent for all over $50,000. This measure, however, provides for deductions to take care of capital losses, interest on debts, other taxes and contributions to charitable and religious organizations.

Personal exemptions of $2,500 for married persons, $1,000 for single persons and $400 for dependents are allowed just as in the emergency tax.

The normal tax was originally one, two and three per cent, but was doubled in 1932 to help balance the budget and has been continued at that level ever since. The emergency tax automatically expires as soon as it is collected this year.

Presbyterians Plan Easter Dawn Service

Easter Sunday at 7 o'clock there will be an Easter Dawn Service of worship in the First Presbyterian Church on Elmendorf street.

Easter choir music, congregational singing of Easter hymns and a brief sermon by the minister, the Rev. Goodrich Gates, on the subject, "Before the Dawn." It will be a 50-minute service.

Another service of worship will be held at the usual hour at 10:30 a. m. with both choirs participating and special solos. At this service there will be a welcome to new members previously received by the session into church membership. Dr. Gates will preach an Easter sermon on "Beacons of Immortality."

At 12 o'clock will be the annual Easter church service for members of the church school, parents and friends, to which the public likewise is invited. Members of the Junior Church will lead in the music of this service and the pastor will speak on "The Living Christ." There will be no evening service that Sunday.

Police Chief Killed

Reidsville, N. C., March 24 (AP)—A. J. Fair, chief of police of Reidsville, was killed in a gun fight at a tourist camp about 10 miles south of here early today. First reports reaching here said a man named Gordon shot the chief through a window of a tourist cabin after Fair had fired first. Each was said to have fired several times. Chief Fair, 45 years old, was married and had four children.

Our Growing Population.

The following births have been reported to the board of health: Mr. and Mrs. Thomas F. Coughlin of 153 Hunter street, a daughter, Anna Rose.

Mr. and Mrs. George Morton of 55 West O'Reilly street, a son, Randall, at Benedictine Hospital.

Mr. and Mrs. August Microp of Connelly, a son, Warren Peter, at Benedictine Hospital.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Mehm of 50 Elizabeth street, a daughter, Carol Helen, at Benedictine Hospital.

Treasury Receipts

Washington, March 24 (AP)—The position of the treasury, March 22 was: Receipts, $27,222,313.73; expenditures, $15,112,244.73; balance, $12,110,069.00; customs receipts for the month, $18,286,355.18. Receipts for the fiscal year (since July 1) $2,252,517,268.63; expenditures, $2,672,432,271.73 (including $2,791,215,231.83 of emergency expenditures); excess of expenditures, $459,915,014.10; gold assets $7,650,232,926.26.

Stavisky Jewels Found In London, Members of Parliament Involved

$650,000 Gems Were Used as a Security for a $10,000 Loan—Prosecution of Four English Legislators Appeared Probable Today.

Paris, March 24 (AP)—The missing Stavisky jewels—worth $650,000—were reported found today, pawned in London.

A secret service man followed the trial of the late Serge Stavisky's secretary, Romagnolo, who went to London while Parisian newspapers were clamoring for his arrest.

A detective discovered the jewels and the fact that they had been used as security for a loan of $10,000.

The loan, it was said, was made after the police net started to close down on France's master swindler and before he died from a revolver shot in a villa at Chamonix.

Prosecution of four members of parliament appeared probable today in the investigation of the Bayonne Bank scandal.

A parliamentary commission, after hearing testimony by the four concerning their alleged relations with Stavisky, ordered transcripts sent to Minister of Justice Henri Cheron.

The minister promptly turned the documents over to the public prosecutor and urged quick action.

The members involved are Senators Pons and Odin and Deputies Proust and Hulin.

Lehman to Appeal to People on Utilities

Governor Confesses He Is Worried Over Failure of Legislature To Report on His Measure—Will Ask That Constituents Bring Pressure.

Albany, N. Y., March 24 (AP)—Governor Lehman, dissatisfied by the legislature's failure to act on his public utilities reform program, will appeal directly to the people Monday night for support.

Nearly three weeks have passed since the public hearings on the governor's bills and neither the senate nor the assembly public service committee has reported any of the measures out for a vote.

Although Governor Lehman would not say that he was worried over the situation, it is understood that he believes some of the legislators need to be urged a little by their constituents.

He has been considering the possibility of an appeal to the people last Monday when he conferred with Democratic members of the two public service committees. He discussed the bills with them and indicated he would later confer with some of the Republican members. The conference with the Democrats brought no action.

The governor announced last night that he would broadcast a statewide message between 6 and 7 p. m. Monday night.

"I feel that the people don't fully understand my program," he said. "My chief purpose is to explain to them what my bills do. I hope the stockholders and employees of all utilities companies in the state hear my message. Although it is not to be addressed to them any more than to the consumers, I would like for them to get a better understanding of the proposals."

Governor Lehman maintains that he believes the entire program will be passed during the present session of the legislature.

There is a great deal of opposition, however, to his proposal to permit municipalities to operate their own light plants. This measure and the one proposing that the Public Service Commission be given power to limit profits of utilities to 5 per cent were the most hotly contested of all the 11 bills at the public hearings.

Investigation Is Asked.

Washington, March 24 (AP)—A congressional investigation of allegations made in a letter by Dr. William A. Wirt of Gary, Ind., that "brain trusters" were seeking to overthrow the government was advocated today by Representative Bulwinkle (D-N.C.). Bulwinkle, a member of the House Interstate Commerce committee before which the letter was read yesterday by James H. Rand, Jr., chairman of the committee for the nation, said he would introduce a resolution either today or Monday calling for the inquiry.

Seizure of Library Causes Soviet Protest

Moscow, March 24 (AP)—A charge that a Russian school library has been seized by authorities in Manchukuo has been made the basis of a new Soviet protest.

A dispatch from Khabarovsk, U. S. S. R., reported last night that the Manchukuo Education Department and police had seized "for inspection" 10,999 volumes in a raid on the school, a technical institution at Harbin.

The school is operated by the Russian administration of the Chinese Eastern Railway for Soviet employees.

In his protest, Julius Rudy, the Soviet manager of the railway, said the Manchukuo Department of Education would be held responsible for all damages.

Fourteen Burned to Death As Fire Razes Federal Transient Bureau

Lynchburg, Va., Shelter for Wandering Homeless Men Was Turned Into a Seething Prison Today When a Kettle of Grease Boiled Over on a Stove—Eight Were Injured in Panic Which Followed General Alarm—Hospitals Rushed Aid.

Lynchburg, Va., March 24 (AP)—Fourteen persons were burned to death and at least eight others were injured in a fire that swept the Federal Transient Bureau here shortly before dawn today. Three of the dead were negroes and the rest were white.

The bodies, some of them charred apparently beyond hope of recognition were carried to Lynchburg undertaking establishments while the injured were carried to two hospitals in every available ambulance, hearse, truck and private car.

One hospital where seventy patients had been admitted reported that possibly one-third of them were seriously burned. Although the full extent of their injuries had not been determined several hours after the tragedy.

Seventy of the victims, about half of them white and the rest negroes, were taken to Lynchburg hospital in every conveyance available and fourteen negroes were carried to Virginia Baptist Hospital. Power facilities were cut off at Memorial Hospital by the fire and this institution was unable to help in the emergency treatment.

Grease Boils Over

Grease boiling over on a hot stove was blamed for the holocaust—the worst remembered in Lynchburg's history. Williams Rash, the cook, said he had been preparing breakfast for the estimated 200 occupants of the building when the grease boiled over on the stove and quickly set fire to the building.

Rash said the grease from which he was to have made gravy boiled over the five-gallon kettle. It blazed up upon touching the hot surface of the stove. Immediately the kettle was in a blaze and the fire shooting upward, ignited the wooden ceiling.

The cook said he grabbed a bucket of water and dashed it on the blaze. This did no good. He emptied two fire extinguishers without effect.

Meanwhile Rash's assistant, C. H. Fizer, and the night watchman, James Webb, turned in the alarm.

Panic Is Started.

Two stories above the fire sleeping in cots only a few feet apart lay two hundred men—the white transients in one section of the double building and the negroes in the part nearest Twelfth street. At that time the fire was making headway in the basement.

At the first sound of "fire" the men became panic stricken. A high board wall surrounded the windows of their sleeping quarters and the men began tearing this down to lead into the street, 15 feet below.

Others clung to the window sills and dropped. Policemen reported seeing some of the men clinging to trolley wires before they fell. All those who jumped were badly hurt—many had broken legs and arms in addition to burns.

The fire spread with tremendous speed. Eating through the wooden floors it continued to the top of the building before firemen could get it under control. Firemen said that within ten minutes after trucks arrived from the city the rear of the building collapsed.

A fire door separating the whites and the negroes sections was open.

Weather Bitter Cold.

The bitter cold weather added to the suffering of the persons who were forced to flee from the building for their lives. Snow covers the city. Meanwhile would-be rescuers, in automobiles and on foot, hurried to the scene.

The Lynchburg Bureau was one of several camps set up throughout the state to care for homeless persons to keep them off highways and railroads. It was administered as a federal emergency relief measure.

Patrolman Allen was on duty at Twelfth and Main streets and turned in an alarm. Then he said, he saw men jumping into the street. He telephoned for ambulances and borrowed trucks from a bakery.

Men Scantly Clothed.

Most of the men had on little or no clothing. Over one hundred were herded into the Salvation Army canteen across the street and clothing was provided from the supply there.

All of these men had made their way down the narrow stairway of the smoke-filled building in the street. Some had slight injuries.

Adjutant L. N. Phelps provided breakfast for the half frozen men, many of whom had been tramping about barefooted in the snow-covered streets. Some men were taken to police headquarters where food and clothing was obtained. Some of the men came out with only a towel wrapped around their charred bodies.

Some Were Horrifically Injured.

Those who reached the scene first said the horror was unspeakable. Men lay groaning and writhing. Blood smeared the snow.

The annual Flower Show which was held at the Grand Central Palace, New York city during the past week has as always attracted extensive comment. As visitors prepared to enter they were first met by the golden glow from several species of palm trees arranged at the head of the stair case. As one approached more closely they found that these trees formed the background for a lovely garden setting. The entire rear part of the show was devoted to garden pools demonstrating what could be done with such natural aspects as fallen logs, fern banks and water mill wheels. The feature of the show and the exhibit to which the prize award was given was the reproduction of an English village with its quaint trim old fashioned garden paths rich in color and its picturesque houses. Another feature of the show was Mrs. Payne Whitney's exhibit of garden corner of tulips in which the first prize award was given to a huge crystal ball in which were arranged several magnificent sprays of white anemones. As usual the Flower Show attracted a number of local horticulturists and members of both the Uister Garden Club and the Little Uister Gardens Club. Mrs. Francis J. Higginson, representing the Uister Garden Club, acted as one of the hostesses at the conservation and roadside booth this afternoon. Mrs. Everett Fowler and Mrs. Spencer Dawes attended the annual meeting of the New York Federation of Garden Clubs at the Hotel Roosevelt as voting delegates from the Uister Garden Clubs. Others visiting the show during the week were Mrs. Roger H. Hughan of Hurley, Miss Mary Goodwell, Mrs. George Washburn, Mrs. Gerard Betz, Miss Helen Loughran, Miss Elizabeth Hadden, Mr. and Mrs. Lewen Searle, Mrs. Edward Bern of Saugerties, Mrs. Ralph Rogers, Mrs. A. ## Existence of Sharks Geologic ages as revealed in the rocks show that sharks have been all parts of the world. Yet, to say, almost nothing is to be found in evidence of sharks to exist since except teeth. The world's oceans are paved with shark teeth, dropped there by the sharks of the sea as they sloughed off and were replaced by deposited as their hosts died. There is no real bone in a shark's teeth only remain undecayed and unrotted by the passage of time, except they be turned to by chemical action through centuries.

Aerial Pictures Of Farms May Aid New Census-Taking

Washington, D. C.—Census-taking of population occupation and use may get a new twist under a proposal to use aerial photographs in mapping farm areas.

Photographs taken from airplanes would be used in a morale, permitting identification of every farm, field and growing crop. Then a new instrument called a "planimeter" would be applied, which would measure each field within 15 per cent of its correct area or with 4 per cent of its linear measure.

Trouble the farm adjustment administration has had in figuring acreages would be overcome partly by compilation of accurate agricultural surveys made through that method.

Would Aid "New Deal".
Already Congress has authorized the 1935 farm census, but Representative Logier of Missouri is pushing a proposal calling for commencement of that enumeration in 1934 and inclusion of a special census

Rosendale Women Met on Wednesday

A meeting of Woman's Club of Rosendale was held at the home of Mrs. Ralph LeFever on Wednesday afternoon, Mrs. P. L. O'Connor presiding. Mrs. Frank Mentz, Ulster county chairman of New York State Federation of Women's Clubs, was guest of honor and her suggestions for the good of the organization, given in her very friendly and encouraging way, were a real inspiration to the members present.

The next meeting of the club will be held as usual on the second Thursday in the month.

A vote of thanks was given the hostess, whose dainty refreshments were heartily enjoyed.

Men With Tails
In the country beyond Sennar (Sudan) there is a race of people, numbering between 30,000 and 40,000, who have tails about three inches long, says Tit-Bits Magazine. They worship the sun, moon, and stars, and also the serpent; human flesh is their favorite food. Their feet are long and flat; their arms and legs, while appearing somewhat feeble, are well supplied with muscles; their faces are ugly, with enormous mouths and thick lips; their teeth are strong, sharp, and very white; their foreheads low and receding. They do not wear beards and their bodies are not hairy. They are the only people known who have the vertebral column elongated externally; in other words, the only people with tails.

Many Varieties In Spring Coats But All Are Youthful Looking

The patch pockets, snug belt and collarless neckline are spring style marks on this gray wool coat. It buttons close to the throat with silver bullets wrapped in blue enamel corals. The scarf and gloves are navy blue and the hat gray felt. Design by Margaret Rochae.

By RITA FERRIS

(Associated Press Fashion Editor.)
Paris, (AP)—Variety is the spice of the spring coat array.

The wraps in which smart women will step out on those first warm days show more difference in fabric and cut than they have displayed in many seasons. They may be long or three-quarter length, buttoned from chin to hem or stylized loose in the breeze, minus a single touch of fur or swathed in regal furs.

They have one point in common, however. They all sing a song of youth. Except for the more elaborate afternoon models, they are simple in effect—if not in cut—and they hang on jauntily lines which speak of movement and activity. Sports and street coats are the smartest of the lot. Tweeds and two-toned wools (herringbones, diamond patterned stripes, rough ribbed weaves and the like) in combinations of brown and beige and two tones of gray make scores of striking models.

Buttons And Patch Pockets.
Some are designed with big fastening revers which flare right out in front; others are collarless with necklines which button close to the throat.

Big buttons and patch pockets are two important notes in their design. The pocket on the outside of the outside of the sports coat is definitely back in the picture, while buttons of wood, celluloid and metal in such designs as squares, dominoes and bullets often are used as fastenings. The three-quarter-length coat is one of the outstanding hits of the season.

Many are fastened with big belts snapped close to the figure, while others hang loose to the hem.

Fur Trimmings Used.
More costly models appear for afternoon, black, navy blue, deep blue and dark gray wools are cut on lines which fit snugly to the figure and are trimmed richly with fur. Sometimes the foxes swath the sleeves, leaving the neckline plain; then again they form collars extending out toward the shoulders; still others form bands for deep cape collars. Many are trimmed with furs dyed to match the fabric, such as a navy blue wool colored in fox dyed

HAPPY CHORUS:

DAILY FREEMAN WANT ADS!”

“One Flight Up and Turn To the Right”

. . . says Bill, “and you'll find the doggondest swellest apartment in town for the money! A spare room for mother when she visits . . . it'll be Junior's some day! And electric refrigeration that's always cold and neighbors that are always as warm as the wood-burning fireplace. Believe me, I signed up for it in a hurry for two years because rents are going up! How'd we find it? Say, Sue and I hadn't been in town two days from our honeymoon when we ran across it in the Daily Freeman Want Ads!”

“I Always Wanted An Honest-to-Pete Garden . . .”

Mary and I and the kids moved in last week; renting now, may buy later. And we're wondering why we didn't do it months ago! Thought we'd have to play hide-and-seek for weeks, I guess, to get located. And all we did was to pick up the Daily Freeman one bright day—and there she was!”

So when it came to thinking of buying one that would do us for life I knew better than to waste gasoline, shoe-leather and money. It's some place I've got—twelve rooms, a game room, rose garden and what not. What's that? Spotted the house in the Daily Freeman Want Ads, of course!”

The ensemble of capelet and dress has been strongly revived for spring by the Paris couture. This model at left is from He'm and is done in white Maroon with black pin stripe, with dress yoke and capelet streams of velvet Maroon.

The two piece costume is of black wool-ottoman, slim and narrow of line, with little bows of white pique at the neck and sleeves.

The Bested Combination.

8135—Look no farther for the answer to your need for something really simple and really smart. For here it is, perfectly fitting every requirement. The striking effect of the white revers which need not be attached in, but can be made removable for laundering, is achieved because it is white, in contrast and also it is the only trimming, and carries out the long line of the side slanting from shoulder to hem.

The sleeves are an interesting feature also, being tucked and softly flared over the elbow. Silk or satin, cotton or woolen may be used with equal good results.

Designed in 7 sizes, 34, 36, 38, 40, 42, 44 and 46. Size 38 requires 2 1/2 yards of 28 inch material, with

The halo, at right, of fabric has been an outgrowth of the jeweled diadems. This braided effect lends itself to ribbon in one color or in three.

Ribbon is important to hair. In the model shown, the ribbon is put through a slit in the hair, forms a handsome treatment and is draped over the crown.

A Trio of Pre-War Silhouettes

Copyright, 1934, by Fairchild

Pre-war silhouettes are evoked by the skirt line of the Mirande evening frock of white satin, at left, probably inspired "Argentine" because of the little embroidered square of white crepe over the shoulders. The embroidery is in Paisley design and colors.

The organdy which Lydene is launching, at center, has a little star and dot pattern in various shades, so that the wearer has a busy look. It makes a summer dress with a white, brightened by white girdle of lacquered bottle green satin. The large buttons are of clear crystal, quite plain.

Lustrous satin in pale rose mauve makes the gown at right which is on more flowing lines than one seen in most of the collections. The square front decorative and covered shoulders are graceful fashions. From Jodelle.

Trap Closing On Samuel Insull

Washington, March 24 (AP).—State department officials believe that Samuel Insull, without knowing it, is sailing for the United States on a ship which will be stopped at the last port where the fleeing financier can move without danger of immediate arrest is believed by them to have been blocked.

President Roosevelt himself helped weave, with a pen stroke, the net around the one-time utility power, the meshes of which were stretched as follows:

The chief executive signed an innocent appearing bill—rushed through congress at the request of the state department—authorizing American consular officials to arrest and deport any American fugitive in countries with which the United States has "complications."

Only the department itself knows which countries have made such agreements. Its list is kept secret—for a reason.

Diplomatic officers are known to believe definitely that Insull, at sea in more ways than one, may try to land in one of the countries with which the United States has a "complication." This he might do without knowing that his legal status has been changed and that he is now subject to arrest.

Under the rights granted by "capitulations" American citizens are tried for crimes committed in that country not by its courts, but by American consular officials.

Now, by an apparently innocuous change in authority, the same consular officials may now make arrests for crimes allegedly committed in the United States.

Negro in White House, Mussolini Prediction

Rome, March 24 (AP).—Premier Mussolini's newspaper, Popolo D'Italia, today viewed with alarm the birth rate in the United States.

"The diminution of births in the United States is assuming alarming proportions," said the newspaper. "If it continues at this rate, the number of births will surpass the number of deaths."

"When we reflect there are in the United States 11,500,000 negroes, people of extraordinary fecundity, it is necessary to conclude with a real cry of alarm. The yellow peril is nothing."

"We will encounter an Africanized America in which the white race, in the inexorable law of numbers, will end by being suffocated by the fertile grandson of Uncle Tom."

"Are we to see within a century a Negro in the White House?"

Financial and Commercial

New York, March 24 (AP).—Stock market sentiment improved today as further reports from Washington indicated hopes of a compromise in the automobile labor controversy. Led by the motor, many issues recovered fractions to a point or more in relatively quiet trading. The close was firm. Transfers approximated 656,000 shares.

The principal activity occurred in the first half-hour. There was some quick profit taking, however, and the volume dwindled appreciably. Some short covering later brought the list up to around its peak level of the brief session.

Grains, cotton, rubber and silver futures turned up with equities, although there was little buoyancy shown by the commodities generally. Bonds were a little mixed. U. S. support international dollar rates again recorded only slight changes.

Shares of General Motors, Chrysler, Nash, Hudson and Auburn got up more than a point. The rails reflected reports of better traffic and earnings. N. Y. Central, Union Pacific, Santa Fe, Pennsylvania and Southern Pacific were almost as firm as the automotive group.

Du Pont rallied more than 2 points and issues up major fractions to more than 1 included U. S. Steel, American Telephone, American Can, Case, Liggett & Myers, B. American Tobacco B, Bethlehem Steel, Sears Roebuck, Montgomery Ward, Goodyear, U. S. Smelting, American Smelting, Western Union and American Locomotive. Most of the aircrafts were active, but their gains were small. The utilities and alcohol were rather narrow.

Open House Program Held at Y. W. C. A.

The auditorium of the Kingston Y. W. C. A. was filled Friday evening with those who had gathered for the Open House, and to enjoy the program prepared by various members and groups of the Y. W. C. A.

The small stage appeared as the "House of the Heart," quaintly arranged as in the days of the seventeenth century and exceedingly picturesque. A conductor's stand faced the opposite small stage with the piano.

Mrs. G. F. Rice, president of the Y. W. C. A., announced the program after extending a cordial welcome to all.

The first numbers on the program were reviews of two outstanding historical plays, given interestingly by Miss Ellen Van Slyke, who had herself been privileged to see both "Mary of Scotland" and "Richard of Bordeaux," which she reviewed.

Two very enjoyable "cello solos" were played by Mrs. J. Thoburn Legg, accompanied by Mrs. Richard Rignall. They were, "Lamento" by Gabriel-Marie and "Neapolitan Dance" by Schroeder. They were given much applause.

For the first time last evening the Kingston chorists, under the direction of Harry P. Dodge, with Miss Merrihew, accompanist, and Mrs. Cullyer and Miss Clinton violinists were heard, and the bearing gave promise of much excellent music for the future in addition to last evening's songs. There is an excellent balance of tone, and the group sang with easy precision, a fine, clear tonal quality and good shading and interpretation. Their songs were of very familiar subjects and by well known composers. "The Show" by Sir Edgar Elgar and "Rain" by Elgar Curran were given an enthusiastic reception.

Before the announcement of the play, Mrs. Rice, in behalf of the Board of Directors and those who took part in the program, especially, thanked Mrs. Howard Lewis for arranging the setting to the play and for the historic and charming costumes of the characters. She also very heartily thanked Miss Herzog and the Dramatic Club for the production of the Morality Play, of the seventeenth century, by Constance D'Arcy McKay, and Miss Eva Rand for the incidental music.

Miss Herzog announced the cast as follows: "Wisdom," relating the tale of The House of Hearts as the story unfolded:

Wisdom ..... Mrs. George F. Rice
Child ..... Miss Anne O'Meara
Cheerfulness ..... Mrs. G. W. Ross
Industry ..... Miss Katherine Millard
Love ..... Miss Marjorie Darlow
Lad Gospel ..... Miss Jean Estey
Laziness ..... Mrs. C. TenBroeck
Grimble ..... Miss Dorothy Brooks
Dame Quarrelsome ..... Mrs. Howard Lewis
Envy ..... Mrs. Cornelius Treadwell
Vanity ..... Mrs. Robert Herzog

The play was a charming production with its quaint costumes of the characters and its early English style and it was most admirably given.

The program closed with the playing of the cello solo "La Pol" by Goltzmann by Mrs. Legg accompanied by Mrs. Rignall.

Gadsden Purchase in 1853

Between U. S., Mexico

The Gadsden purchase was under a treaty between the United States and Mexico, signed December 30, 1853. The negotiators were James Gadsden of the United States and Manuel Diez de Bonilla, Jose Salazar Yarraguel and J. Mariano Monterde for Mexico. By this treaty the disputes which grew out of the treaty of Guadalupe Hidalgo concerning the boundary between the two countries, were settled, and the United States acquired an area of 45,333 square miles, an oblong tract of land forming the southern part of what is now two states, New Mexico and Arizona. This tract, known as the "Gadsden Purchase," was of little value for agricultural purposes, but was regarded as desirable for the reason that the projected Southern Pacific railroad could find its best route through it. By the treaty the United States was released from the onerous duty imposed by the treaty of Guadalupe Hidalgo of protecting Mexico from Indian incursions, and of restoring Mexican prisoners captured by Indians. The United States paid $10,000,000 for this release and for the new territory. Mexico granted to the United States certain important privileges with regard to the transportation of mails and supplies across the isthmus of Tehuantepec—Indianapolis News.

International Date Line

and When Day Is Gained

Crossing the equator has nothing to do with a change of time, declares a writer in the Cleveland Plain Dealer. It is when crossing the international date line, which lies in the middle of the Pacific ocean and roughly corresponds to the one hundred and eightieth meridian, that the traveler loses or gains a day, depending on which way his vessel is moving. It is a purely arbitrary arrangement, made necessary by our method of reckoning time. Sailing west across the date line, a day is lost; crossing it eastward adds a day.

In the north the two passages through Bering Strait so that the entire circumference of the earth will keep the same day as on the rest of the country. In the South Sea it is the same time as the Atlantic. In the South Pacific the date line deviates to the east to avoid a division of Fiji and some of the island dependencies of New Zealand.

Hero or Husband?

By VINA SIMONS
Special Contributor
W. W. Norton

ALFREDA was so delighted with the snapshots she had so luckily managed to get of the famous young aviator at the moment he took the air for his epoch-making flight that she just longed to have him mother see them.

She was going back home next day after a visit with her sister on Long Island, and her home town was just a short distance by car from that of the young aviator's mother.

Alfreda felt that Mrs. Boswell, who the newspapers said was anxiously waiting news of her boy, would be quite overjoyed to see the very good pictures of her son.

By the time Alfreda reached home of course the news had flashed back that the intrepid aviator had accomplished his feat of daring safely.

Mrs. Boswell received Alfreda with true western hospitality and came near to weeping at the very human kindness which Alfreda's act had shown.

"You see, I have two precious parents of my own," said Alfreda, "and know just exactly how they would love snapshots of me if I were in the midst of hundreds of thousands of admiring people—and a hero—or rather, heroine."

"They no doubt love you just as much for being a dear, sweet daughter. I should love Bert just as much if he were only a simple boy and not the hero of the hour."

And then through the doorway came the other son—the one who was neither a hero nor yet an even robust type of man. In fact, as Alfreda looked at him her heart felt pity. Somehow, Joseph Boswell gave the impression of laboring under tremendous odds.

"Miss Gibson, this is my second son. Joe dear, Miss Gibson has brought some excellent snapshots of Bert which she took just as he started his flight. Wasn't it sweet of her?"

Joe Boswell shook hands gravely with Alfreda. In his eyes was an expression that Alfreda could not quite define. Was he jealous of the feats his brother was performing and all the adulation he was bringing about himself or was it just self pity—a pity born of the fact that his body was not strong enough nor his courage great enough for him to adopt a career of daring?

"Good old sport," said Joe and looked fondly at the young Bert smiling at the crowds below him as his plane swept away from the earth, "that's a brother to be proud of."

And Alfreda knew her first surprise had been wide of the mark. Joe Boswell worshiped his brother for the very things that he himself could never attempt to do. He scorned himself for being a stay-at-home man who made his living tied down to an office desk.

"I am thankful I have one boy at home," laughed Mrs. Boswell. "I sometimes wish with all my heart that Bert would give up flying and come and live at home." And she put her arm about Joe's big shoulders. "I don't know what life would be to me if it weren't for Joe."

"He's such a comfort—this boy of mine."

Alfreda looked into the somewhat hurt and wistful eyes of Bert's brother and said softly, "I don't think there's any career in the whole world can equal that of the man who remains beside his own mother and gives her the everyday help and comfort and care that she has through many long years given to him. Even his companionship is a blessing so great that even he cannot understand it—it is only the mother who knows—and appreciates it."

And down in the very depths of that stay-at-home son's eyes a warm glow was kindled. His face was transformed, and if Mrs. Boswell swallowed a lump in her throat it was because this strange young girl had expressed so swiftly and so sweetly the very things she had tried many times to say to Joe. She put her arm round Alfreda and led her and the big son toward the dining room.

"And now we are going to have a cup of coffee and some of my fresh doughnuts and chat about this very subject. I have told Joe so many times that home would just be nothing at all to me if he were off trying to do stunts with the elements. I couldn't have a car because I can't drive nor any joy rides into theaters nor is fact a home at all, as I couldn't live alone."

"Well, mother, you certainly would be in a bad way without a son," laughed Joe, and it was the heartiest laugh his mother had heard for a long time.

"I know just how you feel, Mrs. Boswell," put in Alfreda, "because I should certainly not want a husband who was going to be everywhere except at home. All these wonderful brilliant men who pioneer are very badly needed and they deserve all the adulation they get, but I can't see what fun it is for the person they are married to see the loving family who long for their companionship more than all the world's praise. No street, no office, no home, no life, no love, no act is here when I marry."

The big, shy, stay-at-home son cast a swift glance at her and hardly did he realize how utterly adoring that glance was.

And Mrs. Boswell hummed over the coffee pot.

Claim Unions Refuse To List Members

lative submission of union lists to both the government and the manufacturers under an absolute pledge of non-discrimination against the men whose names would thus be revealed.

Officials, however, refused to say that this was the basis of the plan they were trying to put through.

Meanwhile, William Collins, union representative, reaffirmed the position of the labor delegates in an informal statement to newspapermen. He said the union does have lists of its membership and will give them to the government but not to the manufacturers.

"The manufacturers have lost sight of the fact," Collins said, "that the unions have given a list of their membership or have one available for any government representative who may be decided upon to represent the government."

"In view of the general policy in the past and the present of automobile manufacturers of discrimination against any union or truly representative collective bargaining delegate, the position of the union is that a government representative alone has a right to the list."

"You see, I have two precious parents of my own," said Alfreda, "and know just exactly how they would love snapshots of me if I were in the midst of hundreds of thousands of admiring people—and a hero—or rather, heroine."

"They no doubt love you just as much for being a dear, sweet daughter. I should love Bert just as much if he were only a simple boy and not the hero of the hour."

And then through the doorway came the other son—the one who was neither a hero nor yet an even robust type of man. In fact, as Alfreda looked at him her heart felt pity. Somehow, Joseph Boswell gave the impression of laboring under tremendous odds.

"Miss Gibson, this is my second son. Joe dear, Miss Gibson has brought some excellent snapshots of Bert which she took just as he started his flight. Wasn't it sweet of her?"

Joe Boswell shook hands gravely with Alfreda. In his eyes was an expression that Alfreda could not quite define. Was he jealous of the feats his brother was performing and all the adulation he was bringing about himself or was it just self pity—a pity born of the fact that his body was not strong enough nor his courage great enough for him to adopt a career of daring?

"Good old sport," said Joe and looked fondly at the young Bert smiling at the crowds below him as his plane swept away from the earth, "that's a brother to be proud of."

And Alfreda knew her first surprise had been wide of the mark. Joe Boswell worshiped his brother for the very things that he himself could never attempt to do. He scorned himself for being a stay-at-home man who made his living tied down to an office desk.

"I am thankful I have one boy at home," laughed Mrs. Boswell. "I sometimes wish with all my heart that Bert would give up flying and come and live at home." And she put her arm about Joe's big shoulders. "I don't know what life would be to me if it weren't for Joe."

"He's such a comfort—this boy of mine."

Alfreda looked into the somewhat hurt and wistful eyes of Bert's brother and said softly, "I don't think there's any career in the whole world can equal that of the man who remains beside his own mother and gives her the everyday help and comfort and care that she has through many long years given to him. Even his companionship is a blessing so great that even he cannot understand it—it is only the mother who knows—and appreciates it."

And down in the very depths of that stay-at-home son's eyes a warm glow was kindled. His face was transformed, and if Mrs. Boswell swallowed a lump in her throat it was because this strange young girl had expressed so swiftly and so sweetly the very things she had tried many times to say to Joe. She put her arm round Alfreda and led her and the big son toward the dining room.

"And now we are going to have a cup of coffee and some of my fresh doughnuts and chat about this very subject. I have told Joe so many times that home would just be nothing at all to me if he were off trying to do stunts with the elements. I couldn't have a car because I can't drive nor any joy rides into theaters nor is fact a home at all, as I couldn't live alone."

"Well, mother, you certainly would be in a bad way without a son," laughed Joe, and it was the heartiest laugh

By The Associated Press
Smoke Got in His Eyes

Lauderdale, Fla.—County
Prosecutor W. Gerry Miller is a pipe smoker. When a "friend" gave him a cigar he presented it to County Judge John B. H. Anderson as a gift. The judge opened the cigar and the smoke got in his eyes. The judge's face turned red and he looked very uncomfortable. The judge's face turned red and he looked very uncomfortable. The judge's face turned red and he looked very uncomfortable.

Philadelphia—Now it's the non-stop harmonica playing record. Paul Robinson, 27, started playing Thursday evening and he hopes to continue until midnight tonight. When he wants to eat he takes the harmonica between his upper lip and his nose and blows it through his nostrils.

Gift For a Pal
St. Louis—For twenty years William H. Hettel, former banker, and Gustav A. Boltz, government auditor, played pinocchio together every Saturday afternoon. Hettel died recently. His will, on file today, leaves his estate, valued at $11,000 to Boltz.

Wed Selves Out of Home
Lafayette, Ga.—For fifteen years Miss Nancy Wallen lived at the poor farm. About a month ago Claude Ward, 55, moved into the home. Soon Ward offered Miss Wallen his heart and hand and she accepted. Despite attempts of authorities at the home to persuade them otherwise the couple eloped. Now, after a short honeymoon, they are at the home again, asking to be taken back permanently. Their case comes before the next meeting of the county commissioners.

Knows His Stuff
Chicago—In an emergency Detective James Alesia knows what to do. Three men jumped into his car when he stopped for a red light. "Keep going," one of them commanded, pressing a pistol against his neck. He did: stopping in an alley. "Hand over your gun" was the next command. He obeyed. "Give us your star" he was told. He did. "And now," said the leader of the trio, "we'll take your car, too" and they did. Some time later the detective walked to a police station and reported the robbery.

SOUTH RONDOUT.
South Rondout, March 24.—Mr. and Mrs. Ed Dunn of Ridgewood, N. Y., spent the week-end at their home on Connelly Heights. Mrs. Meekers and daughter, Catherine, and grandson, of New York city, have returned home after spending a few days at the home of Mrs. Kate Kuhl. Mr. and Mrs. Mierop of Third street are receiving congratulations over the arrival of a son, born last week. Mrs. Mierop and baby are doing nicely in the Benedictine Hospital.

Mrs. Josephine Hotaling has returned to her home on Connelly Heights, from a visit to Mr. and Mrs. Richard Marchant and family of Poughkeepsie. A very welcome sound was the Hotaling dry dock whistle which blows again after a long silence, with a few men again working. Mrs. Andrew Beshock and daughter, Mrs. Lawrence Murphy, and son, Lawrence, spent a day recently with Mr. and Mrs. Philip Maurer, Jr., and family of Teaneck, N. J. The Ministerial Association of Kingston held its monthly meeting at the M. E. Church and were served dinner by the Young Ladies' Auxiliary on Friday. William M. Fallon of New York is spending a few days at the home of his sister, the Misses Margaret and Anna Fallon, of Second street. Miss Margaret is recovering from her recent illness.

Mr. and Mrs. E. B. Haines and Mr. and Mrs. Robert Huntley moved to Haines Falls on Tuesday to their summer hotel, "The Vista," which they will soon get in readiness for the summer season. Services as usual in the M. E. Church for Sunday. The Rev. W. E. Gebhard, pastor.

The number of trucks bringing produce into Montana in 1933 was estimated at 25 per cent below that of 1932, a decrease attributed to closer inspection.

Girl Reserves Plan For Circus March 31

High Falls, March 24.—Victor G. Parcell and father, Charles Parcell, of the Clover, were in town on Thursday. Mrs. Charles Hodge entertained at cards last Saturday. Mrs. J. M. Barnhart of Stone Ridge took dinner with her sister, Miss Jennie Snyder on Friday. The Salvation Army Band concert held in the Reformed Church on Thursday evening was well attended and greatly enjoyed by those present.

Mrs. John Wright of Poughkeepsie visited her aunt, Mrs. Mary Delamater, one day last week. Mrs. Elton Parry entertained at cards on Monday afternoon of this week. Rufus Markle was a caller at the Ayers' Farm on Thursday afternoon. One of Mrs. Casper's daughters from the city is spending a short time with her.

Dr. Halcomb of Kingston was in this place on Wednesday. It is reported that George Williams and family are to move to Stone Ridge. Mrs. Henry B. Reed was the dinner guest of relatives in Stone Ridge on Wednesday. There were eight present at the missionary meeting held on Thursday afternoon at the home of Mrs. Thomas Snyder. The subject was work among the Indians, which was most interesting.

Palm Sunday will be observed in St. John's Episcopal Church on Sunday, March 25. Communion service will be held in the Reformed Church on Sunday morning at 9:45 o'clock. Miss Cynthia Van Wageningen spent Saturday with her sister, Miss Louise D. Van Wageningen, of Kingston.

Mr. and Mrs. Harvey Decker of Jersey City Heights and her twin brother, Allen Decker, and wife, are expecting to spend Sunday with Mrs. Mary Delamater. Mrs. Festus Yeaple called on Mrs. L. W. Krom and daughter, Miss Miriam Krom, on Wednesday afternoon.

KELVINATOR COMPANY VOTE TO PAY DIVIDEND

Detroit, Mich., March 24.—Action of directors of Kelvinator Corporation in voting a 12½ cents dividend payable April 15 to stockholders of record March 27, is pointed to by company officials as an added reflection of the company's unparalleled early-season business record this year.

Following on the heels of a February shipment record which made that month better by 128 per cent than any previous February in the company's history, March shipments for the first 20 days of the month already had exceeded the entire month of March, 1933, and incoming business was showing the same gains over previous years which characterized January and February operations.

Referring to the present high wage and employment level which Kelvinator is maintaining, H. G. Perkins, vice-president, said that Kelvinator Corporation, realizing that 1934—in all probability will be a record year in the electric refrigeration industry, is making every effort to take advantage of present opportunities to keep employment and wages at these high marks.

WEST HURLEY

West Hurley, March 24.—A Chevrolet car, driven by Luke Hammond, collided with another car at the intersection of the Woodstock road, opposite Mould's gas station. There was no personal injury but both cars were damaged.

In honor of her birthday, friends gave Miss Nordia Finn, a surprise party. Mrs. Bernard Smith concluded a one-week stay at the home of Miss Post and Hannah. Mrs. Smith supervised, at this time, the installation of a pipeless furnace in the Smith cottage.

James Britt, who is attending Albany Medical College, was home for the week-end. Due to his college experience at Holy Cross, he was appointed referee at the basketball game. Jimmy anticipates a busy summer engaging in hospital work. Mr. Zimmerman has returned to New York city.

Clement Smith is in New York city. C. B. Klag, local landscape expert, went to New York city to see the flower show. He was accompanied by his wife and daughter. Their plans call for an overnight stop with relatives at Central Valley.

Harriet Emile has been removed to her home from the Kingston Hospital after a successful appendix operation. A. Nussbaum was summoned to Yonkers by the tragic and accidental death of his sister, Mrs. Kramer. D. R. Rooney received word that his sister, Mrs. R. P. Mott, was injured in a taxicab accident in Brooklyn.

Hobart Rowe has trucked the lumber to the site selected by Mr. Groves for the erection this spring of his permanent residence here. Mrs. Lucinda Browne is scheduled to make her appearance in the village next week after spending the winter with her son, Harry, in Lutherville, Md.

Mr. and Mrs. LeRoy Cartright of Newburgh visited at the home of Mr. and Mrs. John Saxe. Sunday, March 25, the Rev. George Wilsey of Catskill, accompanied by his wife, attended the services at the West Hurley M. E. Church. The pastor, the Rev. Clarence Winchell, extended a warm greeting and acting on his cordial invitation the Rev. Mr. Wilsey delivered the sermon. This visit was a complete and pleasant surprise, affording many old friends the opportunity of seeing the Rev. Mr. Wilsey after a 12-year interval. He served this charge for eight consecutive years.

The Y. C. C. terminated a successful basketball season Friday evening, playing a quietest representing the New's Club of the Old Hurley Reformed Church. The club thanks those folks who loyally supported them through a disagreeable, cold winter. The team will be the guests of the club at a banquet given in their honor on the evening of April 3.

Kingston "Queen Christina"
For lovers of the husky voiced Garbo, this picture is a masterpiece of the 17th century will be appearing before this talkie is nothing more than one effective camera shot of the star followed after another. The whole show because to her, the other characters move across the screen as a background for her, and Greta Garbo contributes another interesting and romantic presentation in the role of Queen Christina, the mannish ruler of the 17th century Sweden. Dressed in men's clothing the queen puts up at an inn over night, and is asked if she will share her room with another man. She objects, but the night is stormy, the inn crowded, and she is forced to give up part of her room. The stranger is none other than an emissary from the king of Spain, come to seek the hand of Sweden's queen for his monarch. He discovers she is a woman, and they fall in love. That is the plot structure of the story, and the ending is tragic and tearful. Never was Miss Garbo photographed to better advantage, and the direction is exceptional. John Gilbert, Lewis Stone, Vera Sue Collins, Ian Keith and Reginald Owen are in the large cast.

Orpheum "White Woman" and "Secret Sinners"
Broadway: "Eskimo" A saga of an Eskimo life, filmed in the far north, a picture that took a year to complete, with Eskimo actors, Eskimo dialect, and Eskimo methods of living in a half-crazed white man rules a part of jungle country, and steals and beats the natives into terror-stricken submission. He brings a white woman there with him, and the white men in his camp all fall in love with her, causing great damage and bloodshed. "Secret Sinners" is a story of the show business, with Jack Mulhall, Nick Stuart and Sue Carol.

Broadway: "Four Vaudeville Acts" and "This Side of Heaven"
Vanderbilt continues to be a week-end attraction at the Broadway, with four new specialty acts being offered on the bill. "This Side of Heaven" stars Lionel Barrymore, and features Mae Clarke, Tom Brown, Una Merkel, Mary Carlisle, Oswald Stevens and Fay Bainter in a realistic and well acted story of a modern family and the troubles it faces in its troublesome and disastrous day ends up with the father, played by Lionel Barrymore, trying to commit suicide because of a settlement charges against him. Yet all turns out in a happy fashion at the conclusion of the play, and is enjoyable and acceptable screen drama.

Orpheum: "The Mad Game" Spencer Tracy, Ralph Morgan, Claire Trevor and Carroll Nye all work diligently and well in this treatise of kidnapping, racketeering and the other popular gutter arts practiced in these United States. Spencer Tracy here is a beer baron, reclining in prison. His former lieutenant, responsible for Mr. Tracy's being in prison, has turned to kidnapping, and the prison authorities release Mr. Tracy on the promise that he will get the goods on his former pal. That is just what Mr. Tracy does in several reels of exciting drama. This picture tears the evils of kidnapping apart, and is a pretty potent indictment against lawlessness and crime. Well acted and well directed, this show is worth seeing. Claire Trevor supplies the love interest.

Kingston "Queen Christina"
For lovers of the husky voiced Garbo, this picture is a masterpiece of the 17th century will be appearing before this talkie is nothing more than one effective camera shot of the star followed after another. The whole show because to her, the other characters move across the screen as a background for her, and Greta Garbo contributes another interesting and romantic presentation in the role of Queen Christina, the mannish ruler of the 17th century Sweden. Dressed in men's clothing the queen puts up at an inn over night, and is asked if she will share her room with another man. She objects, but the night is stormy, the inn crowded, and she is forced to give up part of her room. The stranger is none other than an emissary from the king of Spain, come to seek the hand of Sweden's queen for his monarch. He discovers she is a woman, and they fall in love. That is the plot structure of the story, and the ending is tragic and tearful. Never was Miss Garbo photographed to better advantage, and the direction is exceptional. John Gilbert, Lewis Stone, Vera Sue Collins, Ian Keith and Reginald Owen are in the large cast.

BOWLING SCORES

Longyear Victorious

In a special challenge match at Emerick's alleys, Albany, N.Y., Longyear's invincibles defeated in a 56 point victory over Benny Fein's Sample Shop bowlers. Final score of the tilt was Longyear 2905, Fein 2809. Freddie Rice of the losers posted the highest average, 205, and split the single game honors with Billy Thiel of the Longyears, each having a mark of 235. Rice's triple total surpassed Thiel's by 13, Freddie having 615 for his trio of games, the highest chalked up by any of the players. Homer Emerick of the invincibles was next with 610.

The highest game was scored by the invincibles, 1915, although all of the contests went over the 200 mark. Individual scores were as follows:

SPORT SLANTS

By ALAN J. GOULD
(Associated Press Sports Editor.)

What of the "new Jones" Walter

Hagen is talking about at the very time that the original article, R. T.

Jones, Jr., is planning to re-enter the lists at Augusta against the best professional golf talent in the land?

What makes the pros so enthusiastic about placing the responsibility of locking the great Georgian right smack up to young Paul Runyan?

Part of the answer may be that Runyan now resembles the Jones of say, 10 years ago, before the Georgian took on a bit extra around the waist-line and filled out generally. Runyan is about the same height as Jones. They walk alike and use the same putting stance.

Paul is a little chattier than Bob, on or off the course, but he also has similar moments of absolute concentration.

The main thing, however, is that

Runyan can hit every golf shot well, that he is extremely cool under pressure and is without doubt the

Strength Added to Chicago, But Club Lacks Pennant Punch

By PAUL ZIMMERMAN
(Associated Press Sports Writer.)

Los Angeles, March 24. (AP)—On the ability of new players hinges the chances of the Chicago White Sox to pull out of the second division in the American League pennant race

this year.

Manager Lew Fonseca, in his drive to rejuvenate the club, has added strength in every department

—a much better organization, he believes, than the one he took charge of two years ago, but hardly a pennant contender.

He isn't satisfied by any means with the White Stockings as they now line up. For example, Fonseca would like very much to get another catcher. And he believes a southpaw pitcher would help out.

Bonus An Asset

But he has a lot of things to be thankful for along with his worries.

Fonseca believes Henry "Zeke" Bonura, big, hand-driving hitter from the Texas League will round out one of the best infields in the American League.

With Bonura, who hit 357 last season, at first, Jimmy Dykes at third, Minter Hayes at second and

Jones Trails in 28th Place Because of Faulty Putting

By DILLON GRAHAM
Associated Press Sports Writer

Augusta, Ga., March 24. (AP)—Bobby Jones faced a task today that would have tested his smile and courage even in his reign of years

as emperor of golf, that of overtaking professional rivals who hold advantages of from one to eight strokes.

With half the Masters Invitation battle done, Jones made himself no better than twenty-eighth position, far behind the leading Horton Smith and below most of his professional opponents of former days.

Erratic putting in the opening rounds sent Jones' scores high, offset his fine play through the fairways and forced him to post rounds of 76-74-150.

"Comeback" Successful

Excluding his performance in around the green, Bobby's "comeback" has been successful for his long game has been near perfect, but inability to regain his former putting stroke and the consequent errors all but pushed him out of the running. Bobby needed two good rounds today and Sunday to get up among the leaders and a pair of marvelous exhibitions to stand any chance of winning. Curiously the one man who now holds the widest margin over Jones is Horton Smith, the youngster who gave Bobby his last defeat in the spring of 1929 before the "grand slam" march was on.

Smith played far closely yesterday for a 72 after his opening 79 for a two-round total of 151, and a stroke lead over the field.

Bill Hurke, Jones' successor as the United States open champion in 1931, and Big Ed Budley, whose 69 was yesterday's low score, were tied at 143. The veteran Macdonald

New Hupmobile Is On Display Here

Southard-Belcher, Inc., of the county distributors for Hupmobile, place on display at their showrooms, 25 St. James street, today the first of the new 1934 series Hupmobiles. Owing to various causes, Hupmobile Car Corp. was delayed in the production of their new aerodynamic design but now they are in full swing and the cars are coming off the assembly line as they did back in the days of 1929 and 1932. A big bank of unfilled orders will keep the Hupmobile plant busy for many months.

The first car received by the local dealers is a model 417-W sedan. Hupmobile's entry in the $795 price group. This Series 417, the first number denoting the year and the last two the wheelbase, offers outstanding value. This is evident not only in its 117-inch wheelbase, its 50-horsepower motor and interior spaciousness but also in its refreshing new beauty and modern design. The Series 417 is a true Hupmobile in quality, in performance and in long life.

The modern, aerodynamic design is the result of graceful streamlining of the rear, the new skirted fenders, the sweeping lines of the running boards and innumerable details, all of which contribute to a pleasing symmetry.

Montana led all states in 1933 visitors to Glacier National Park with 22,937. California was second with 2,836, Washington third with 2,468.

Education Board to Study School Plans

Building Committee to investigate and report back.

Improvement of No. 4 school also came before the board. A petition was recently received from parents of the district requesting that the board take steps to improve the school and remedy sanitary conditions there. At the last meeting of the board it was voted to have an investigator come down from the State Education Department and make a study of the building and make recommendations as to what might be done. This action was taken since the plans for improvement of the building had not been approved by the State Department and as the work it was desired to get the matter under way as soon as possible starting off in the first instance with plans submitted by the State Department. The board felt time would be saved. Such an inspection has been made and a report was submitted to the board but it was so vague and uncertain that it was not read or presented to the board at the meeting Friday evening.

Apparently the report does not make any definite suggestions or present any plan for improvement at No. 4. The report evidently deals with generalities and the entire school system of the city.

In view of that fact the board voted to have the Building Committee employ an architect and make a survey of No. 4 school building to ascertain what can be done. Plans will be prepared and submitted to Albany for approval. The improvement will be along the lines suggested in the petition. However, the plans will be subject to the approval of the State Education Department. It had been hoped that the department would make some suggestion as to plans for improvements which would be approved and this would have expedited the matter. Starting off with approved plans Mr. Beers said would have been easier than to have the board and perhaps have them altered and changed. Time was an element since the work would have to be done during summer vacation.

The payroll for March amounting to $34,938.09 was audited as were bills amounting to $23,531.17. These bills included about $19,000 of bonds and interest due April 1. After this payment on the bonds there will remain but $25,000 of bonded indebtedness on the school system of the city. In 1933 $19,000 is due and in 1934 the last $10,000 will become due.

The supplies committee was authorized to solicit bids for coal for the schools and also for fuel oil for the high school, and bids for general supplies and library books for the ensuing year.

A report of a special meeting of the board was made. On March 9 a special meeting was held for the purpose of purchasing electric light fixtures for the schools. The amount was about $700. The contract was awarded Joseph A. McNelis. These fixtures were purchased by the board and were hung as a part of the CWA program of the city.

At a recent meeting the board went on record as favoring full payment of state aid money. There was a cut last year in the state aid to schools and another was in prospect for this year. The board sent a communication to Senator Wicks and Assemblyman Conway asking them to support any bills for an appropriation to raise the state aid to the provisions of the existing law. Senator Wicks replied that there had been a reduction of $14,000,000 by the governor in the school fund but that when such a bill was offered calling for an appropriation so that this school aid might be restored he would give it his support. Assemblyman Conway also replied to the board's communication and stated that he was in favor of more school money and that he believed the sales tax might make provision for increased school aid, but first the governor's opposition to this greater school aid must be overcome. The request is only to restore the state aid money to meet the provisions of the present existing law and bring the state aid back to what it was before the present reduction went into effect.

A request for use of the high school auditorium for a concert on April 30 was granted. The request was from the Kingston Chorists of the Y. W. C. A. A request from the Federated Council, P. T. A., for use of the auditorium for a children's opera in English some date in April or May, to be determined, was granted on the usual terms.

"In order that they may go directly home after the dance in the high school," the Girls' H-Y Club of the high school, asked the board to grant them an extension of time for their dance in the gym on May 4. The usual closing hour is 11:30 o'clock. The request stated that in order to make the dance a success and also in order that the participants in the dance would go straight home after the dance they would like an extension of an hour until 12:30 o'clock. The board decided that if the club desired to abide by the usual 11:30 o'clock closing time the request would be granted. Not so long ago the closing time was 11 o'clock. Then came a request for a later closing and the board extended the time to 11:30 o'clock. This hour of closing the board feels is a proper one for boys and girls of high school age and if one exception is made to that closing rule it would mean more requests and an ultimate complete extension of the rule.

The A. A. of the high school was granted use of the gym and auditorium for its annual party and dance on May 25.

Superintendent Van Ingen submitted the following report and the board then adjourned.

To the Board of Education:

The evening school which by law must be conducted for a minimum of fifty evenings, was closed February 6. The number registered during the session was about two hundred. Classes were conducted in Americanization, commercial, academic and vocational subjects. The largest number of students registered in the commercial courses such as bookkeeping, typewriting, etc.

The registrants are all men and cab line reported seeing one Negro with a car parked standing at the corner of Twelfth and Church streets with burning flames. With the aid of a bystander, Hallock put out the fire.

As soon as the firemen could enter the building they began bringing out bodies. Awe-stricken crowds watched in silence as body after body, wrapped in sheets or canvas, was brought down the ladders.

Miss Lillian Kempel, superintendent of Memorial Hospital, expressed regret that her institution could not take any of the patients because of lack of electric current. One patient died after reaching Virginia Hospital. Soon after 5 o'clock doctors were at the hospital laboring over the men. Dr. M. G. Peterson, director of public welfare, got out of bed and went to take complete charge of arrangements at Lynchburg Hospital.

Mistresses Commandeered.

Dr. Peterson ordered 45 mattresses from downtown stores and put some of the not so seriously injured men on the floor. Old coats were taken out of storage for others of the injured.

Night Superintendent C. F. Anderson of the Transient Bureau, said James Webb woke him and then he was able to save the records. The roster shows that 199 men were in the building, 87 whites and 107 Negroes. They were from all parts of the United States.

FEWER CIVIL SERVICE EXAMINATIONS BEING HELD.

Washington, D. C., March 24.—The United States Civil Service Commission points out the advisability of making full investigation of the prospect of examinations for and appointments to the classified civil service of the United States before signing a contract for instruction by a civil service coaching school.

Under present conditions, appointment prospects are not of the best and examinations are few in comparison with those held under normal conditions, the commission says.

It says that there is reason to believe that agents of some coaching schools encourage clients to pay for training for examinations which are not likely to be held for a long time.

Information regarding pending examinations may be obtained from the secretary of the board of United States civil service examiners at the post office in any city which has a class, or from the United States Civil Service Commission, Washington, D. C.

women of maturity who are seeking to improve, and to prepare themselves for better service in their present positions, or to prepare themselves for promotion.

I believe this educational undertaking has real value and meets the needs of a group of adults seeking special preparation for specific ends. Since the present economic trend is toward expansion, it is logical to assume that the attendance at evening schools will increase in future years.

I am submitting briefly some interesting facts in regard to the thrift service established in our public schools about ten years ago. During this decade the school children have deposited $457,081.04 and withdrawn approximately three-fourths of it, leaving $111,910.09 on deposit March 13, 1934. This sum stands to the credit of 8,788 depositors.

The average weekly deposits are approximately $1,000. This is somewhat less than for two preceding years. The total deposits for the week of March 13, 1934, were $934.41 while it was $1,049.95 for the corresponding week in 1932 and $1,127.70 for 1933.

It is encouraging to note that our pupils are saving approximately $4,000 per month in this period of economic stress. Best of all perhaps is the encouragement of parents and teachers in the formation of habits of thrift on the part of pupils.

The school medical department has been carefully cooperating with Dr. Van Weber of the County Hospital in making the tuberculin test of those pupils whose parents have given their consent. Three thousand sixty (3,600) have been tested, including pupils from both the public and the parochial schools—about 60 per cent of all pupils attending schools in the city. In addition to this big undertaking, over 500 pupils have been fluorographed at the hospital.

The magnitude of this work cannot be appreciated except by those actually participating. The effects of this thorough work will add to the prestige and reputation of the city, establishing and maintaining a high health level.

Respectfully submitted,
B. C. VAN INGEN,
Supt. of Schools,
Kingston, N. Y., March 23, 1934.
